WOMAN'S CLUB WILL LAY CORNER STONE

NEXT TUESDAY WILL BE A DAY OF EXULTATION

Public is Cordially Invited to Witness the Ceremonies

The Woman's club of Phoenix, on the occasion of its next regular meeting, Tuesday afternoon, March 14, will lay the cornerstone of its club building, to be erected on the northeast corner of First avenue and Bennett Lane. This will probably be the day of greatest rejoicing for the club women, in the whole history of the organization. It is something that began a number of years ago almost as a hopeless dream, but has been cherished fondly and worked toward with perseverance and industry, until realization is now at hand.
The event will be regarded as a regular club meeting incident. To that end the club members will assemble as usual in the W. C. T. U. building at 2:15 o'clock and will formally open the meeting, then adjourn to the site of the new building where the ceremonies of laying the cornerstone will take place. The public is cordially invited to attend the laying of the cornerstone which will occur as nearly as can be scheduled, at 2:30 o'clock. Not merely the members of the club but all men and women who feel the slightest interest in the club and its work, or who take a civic pride in its growth and prosperity, are invited to be present.
The program will begin with an invocation by Rev. Henry Martyn Campbell, D. D., pastor of the Presbyterian church.

Mrs. B. A. Fowler will follow with a historical sketch of the club, no doubt reciting in detail how the club was started and later how the building idea was developed. The first start made toward a fund which has been sacredly kept and added to at frequent intervals with the hope of a club home always in mind.

The casket which is to be filled with the documents and other articles to be placed in the cornerstone will be presented by Mrs. Dwight B.
Heard after which there will be a presentation of symbols, by Mrs. B.
V. Cushman.

Mrs. Heard will then lay the cornerstone and the assemblage will sing "America."

The closing ceremonies will be conducted by Mrs. R. M. Tefel, president of the club.
The ladies who are to take prominent parts in the ceremonies are all among the older members of the club, possibly were all members from the very first, and they have all been closely associated with it from that time to the present. In participating they will feel not only the club pride but some individual pride in seeing the consummation of the plans they have been following so patiently for a number of years. And

BLOOD POISON CAN BE CURED

If you have sores, running patches in the mouth, sore throat, eruptions, copper colored spots on your body, falling hair, swollen glands, pain in the bones, or a general feeling of weakness, your special treatment will cure you. Dr. D. D. FOSTER, former chief physician of the original Cook Brothers Co., treated over 25,000 patients of that company in the fifteen years office. May come to treat. DON'T BE MISLED.
Free Treatment, that cures blood poison for a short time. RELIABLE CURES ARE NOT FREE. Our treatment has cured the best for 25 years and have never been compelled to offer free treatment to procure patients. Booklet on Blood Poison, free. Write after all the time has not been long considering the magnitude of their task and the very small beginning when it was undertaken. The club has shown from the first a spirit of cooperation that has gained for it the respect of the whole city. The construction of a club building is the most imposing monument of the work of the organization to date, but meanwhile it has a record of achievements in civic betterment of which it is entitled to be even more proud.

RISQUE COMEDY ON THE HORIZON

A FAMOUS HIT REVIVED AND STAGED AGAIN.

"The Girl from Rector's" Soon to Tickle Phoenix.

The "Girl from Rector's," which will be presented at the Elks theater Friday evening of next week, March 17th, is one of those charming plays which carry the audience up to the high fence of propriety and give them a slight peep, just a transient glance, through a peep hole to the other side, but the daring theme of the production is carried off in a strong and artistic manner, and the slight risqué tendency of the witty lines is merely of that character which sends a seat holder packing with the idea that he has seen something worth while and worth remembering.

It is not often that a light comedy of the character of "The Girl from Rector's" gets on the stage again after having been taken off to give way to other more modern productions, and those who saw the play in New York several years ago when it had its phenomenal run there said what they thought would be a last farewell to the clever comedy when they were informed that it had been taken off the boards. But with the more or less sterile season which immediately followed, when few plays of real merit were written or produced, a demand for the standard comedies of the previous year was developed, and with a certain knowledge of the success which would attend a revival of Paul Potter's brilliant farce, the play was restaged and sent out again with, if such a thing may be said, a better cast than sustained it at the time of its first appearance.

Criticisms of "The Girl from Rector's" vary in the commendation or criticism, the acclaim or censure which is meted out to the author and to the production, but its interest is undeniable, and its success in Phoenix is already assured.

NO HIGH COST OF LIVING THEN.

In the Year 1975, 16 Dishes Were Considered an Average Meal.

Our ability to eat, if one may judge from the old records, ancient cookbooks, and such bits of literature as deal with the subject, is slowly dying out. A half glass of milk and a piece of bread is supposed by some persons to be an adequate meal for a man of today.

As against this, it is interesting to set down what Gervais Markham, in 1875, sets forth as "a list of dishes to keep in his family for the entertainment of his true and worthy friends."

First warning the master of the feast that he must consult the season of the year, since summer affords what winter wants, and vice versa, he goes on to say: "It is good for him who intends to feast to set down the number of his full dishes, that is, dishes of meat that are of substance, and not empty or for show; and of these, sixteen is a good proportion for one course unto one mess (meal), as for example: First, a squab of brussels, with mustard; secondly, a boiled capon; thirdly, a boiled piece of beef; fourthly, a chine of beef roasted; fifthly, a neat's tongue roasted; sixthly, a pigge roasted; seventhly, chevels bak'd; eighthly, a goose roasted; ninthly, a swan roasted; tenthly, a turkey roasted; the eleventh, a haunch of venison roasted; the twelfth, a pasty of venison; the thirteenth, a pigge with a pudding in the belly; the fourteenth, an olive pie; the fifteenth, a couple of capons; the sixteenth, a custard or dousets."

"Now to these full dishes may be added sallets, fricasses, quenelles, choux, and devised paste, as many dishes more, which makes the full service no less than two and thirty dishes, which is as much as can conveniently stand on one table and at one mess."

"And after this manner you may proportion both your second and third courses holding fulness in one-half of the dishes and show in the other, which will be both frugal in the spender, contentment to the guests and much pleasure and delight to the beholders."—Harper's Weekly.

IT IS JUST A HABIT.

"I suppose, Ellen," she remarked to the new girl, with feigned indifference, "that you overheard my husband and me conversing rather earnestly this morning. I hope, however, that you did not think anything unusual was going on."
"Niver a bit, mum. I wanst had a husband mesself, an' niver a day passed that th' neighbors didn't believe one or th' other uv us would be kilt intirely."—Success Magazine.
